The icare tonometer has been one of the best purchases I have made in a long time. It is very accurate and I have been able to take measurements on patients as young as 3 years of age. Occasionally I will find that the younger patients will have pressures around 20mmHg and perhaps that is related to the stronger/tighter cornea?? It will be interesting to monitor these young patients over time for glaucoma as they have not had accurate measureable IOPs via NCT or Perkins or Goldman due to cooperation issues.

My staff is able to perform these measurements with the icare tonometer, I prefer to do it myself to keep the consistency on the measurements and I feel the confidence of the user helps relax the patient with any equipment that comes so close to the eye.

It has been invaluable at our nursing home visits...the patients are much more comfortable with this than with the Perkins tonometer.
